To conserve forever the lands and waters of the Finger Lakes region, ensuring scenic vistas, local foods, clean water, and wild places for everyone.

The Finger Lakes Land Trust (FLLT) is a nonprofit conservation organization working across 12 counties in Central New York. Since 1989, we have worked cooperatively with landowners and partners to protect some of the most treasured natural areas and open spaces in these vital watersheds. FLLT manages dozens of conservation areas that are free and open to the public for quiet recreation year-round. We also hold easements on protected lands that remain in private ownership. FLLT is supported by members, and you can help us do more!

This scenic and inviting natural gem encompasses portions of an extensive forest, rolling meadows, wetlands, and a rugged stretch of Six Mile Creek, the drinking water source for the City of Ithaca.

NATURAL HISTORY

The preserve borders Yellow Barn State Forest, Hammond Hill State Forest, and the Cornell Old 600 Natural Area, making it an important connector in a larger array of some 8,000 acres of protected lands. The primary natural feature of the preserve is Six Mile Creek, a major watercourse in the Cayuga Lake watershed. Approximately 5,350 feet of the creek flows through the preserve, and another 2,600 feet of stream flows along a boundary of the preserve.

HISTORY

In 1993, four tracts of the original preserve were purchased with the help of many donors, including a significant gift from the daughter of the late Roy H. Park, a media executive and entrepreneur who made his home in Ithaca. Since then the Land Trust has continued to expand the preserve.
